

Teacake's Clerk Beats Up Customer, Breaks His Jaw

38th Avenue between Penniman and Angelo

On Thursday afternoon, Sept. 8, Dan went into Teacake's liquor store. He put his items on the counter. The total was $8.50. Dan gave the clerk a ten. The clerk gave him fifty cents change. Dan asked about the other dollar. The clerk agreed that the charge was $8.50 and that Dan had paid with a ten, but the clerk insisted the correct change was fifty cents!

The clerk asked, do you want your money back? Dan said, yes. But then the clerk said he did not have to put up with this, came around the counter, and started beating Dan. Dan got out of the store, but the clerk followed and beat him to his knees. When the clerk noticed that people were watching, he ran away.

Dan suffered a broken jaw that needs to be wired, a broken tooth, and several bruises.
